Don't take chances on hat sizes. Measure the person's head who will be wearing the hat. Some big people have little heads and visa-versa! To measure, use string or a tape measure. Starting from the center of the forehead, continue around back of the head, at the widest part and back to the center of your forehead. Your head size is where the tape meets the beginning of the tape. The tape needs to be taut but not too tight. If using string, remove from head and measure amount used to go around head.

A word about using your own fiber. Some vegetation is removed while processing the fiber. I will make a good effort to get most of it out but you should skirt and remove as much debris as you can before you ship it to me. You need to send 8 ounces of clean unwashed Huacaya Alapca fiber for each hat. Your finished hat will weigh around 5 ounces depending on style and size. The extra fiber allows for loss in processing and waste on the carder. I will only accept prime blanket fiber with a minimum 3 inch staple. The best fiber for hats is 24-30 microns. Anything under 20 microns tends to be too soft to hold a molded shape, unless blended with a stronger fiber.

These are very beautiful, handcrafted hats. If you find a small seed or bit of grass imbedded in the fabric, consider that a good luck token to the health of all alpacas. If it really bothers you, grab tweezers and pick it out!
